2010 Census: It's in Our Hands

An Introduction to the 2010 Census

Counting Everyone Once — and Only Once — and In the Right Place

The foundation of our American democracy is dependent on fair and equitable representation in Congress. In order to achieve an accurate assessment of the number and location of the people living within the nation's borders, the U.S. Constitution mandates a census of the population every 10 years.

The census population totals determine which states gain or lose representation in Congress. It also determines the amount of state and federal funding communities receive over the course of the decade. The 2010 Census data will directly affect how more than $4 trillion is allocated to local, state and tribal governments over the next 10 years. In order for this funding allocation to be accomplished fairly and accurately, the goal of the decennial census is to count everybody, count them only once, and count them in the right place. The facts gathered in the census also help shape decisions for the rest of the decade about public health, neighborhood improvements, transportation, education, senior services and much more.

assistance. Additionally, questionnaires in Spanish, Chinese (Simplified), Korean, Vietnamese and Russian—as well as language guides in 59 languages—will be available on request.

City Employee Named Recreation Professional of the Year

The Texas Recreation and Parks Society awarded City of Grapevine Community Activities Center Supervisor Trent Kelley the Recreation Professional of the Year Award on November 13, 2009. Over 200 recreational professionals were eligible for the award in Region 2.

Kelley joined the Grapevine Parks and Recreation Department as Fitness Coordinator eight years ago, and was promoted to Community Activities Center (CAC) Supervisor in 2006.

Under Kelley's leadership, Grapevine's CAC has developed one of the finest fitness programs around,

Reaching an Increasingly Diverse Population

The goal of the 2010 Census is to count all residents living in the United States on April 1, 2010. The U.S. Census Bureau does not ask about the legal status of respondents in any of its surveys and census programs.

To help ensure the nation's increasingly diverse population can answer the questionnaire accurately and completely, about 13 million bilingual Spanish/English forms will be mailed to housing units in neighborhoods identified as requiring high levels of Spanish

Keep Grapevine Beautiful Honored

Keep Grapevine Beautiful (KGVB) was honored at the annual Keep America Beautiful National Conference for distinguishing itself as an exemplary affiliate organization. Taking first place in its category, the organization was honored for its outstanding community beautification program.

The 56th Annual Keep America Beautiful National Conference, held in Washington, D.C., brought together award-winning affiliates from across the country to share best practices and celebrate the successes of the last 12 months. The Keep America Beautiful Affiliate Awards are open to all Keep America Beautiful affiliates for program activities during the 12-month period from July 1, 2008 through June 30, 2009. The honored affiliates encourage individuals to make simple daily choices and to engage in volunteer activities that improve their communities and the local environment.

Keep Grapevine Beautiful, along with Phi Theta Kappa and Honors in Action Academy, took first place in their category for its beautification of Rockledge Park. In partnership with Phi Theta Kappa and the Honors in Action Academy, KGVB accelerated the completion of improvements the park needed and saved thousands of dollars in labor due to their volunteer efforts.

Gate fees have been justified and implemented, thereby creating a source of revenue that can be reinvested into the park. The park is now used more frequently for community events such as firework shows, corporate gatherings and family reunions. An "adopt-an-area" agreement has been initiated for the pavilion area. 🍇

GREENER Cleaner Grapevine

Don't Make Our Water Sick by Flushing Prescription Drugs!

Research has shown that flushing medications to the sanitary sewer can cause problems for a waste treatment system. Beneficial bacteria may be killed, and many substances passing through the treatment process potentially enter our surface water (lakes and streams) and groundwater systems. This is detrimental to wildlife living in or using the water, not to mention the issues with medications entering our drinking water. The City of Grapevine offers these tips to get rid of unwanted medication:

- Ask your pharmacy if they have a drug take-back program.
- Take the medication to the Environmental Collection Center (6400 Bridge Street, Fort Worth, 817-871-5257). They will dispose of medications and other hazardous wastes free of charge to Grapevine residents.
- Bring your unwanted medication to Grapevine's Annual Household Hazardous Waste Collection Event.
- Place the medication in a sealable plastic bag (doubling bags up is an even better idea) with another undesirable substance (coffee grounds or kitty litter for solid medications, table salt to excess in liquids) and throw them in the trash. This will help keep animals or people from going through the trash and getting into the medication.

Similarly, placing medication and the undesirable substances in a sealable container (coffee can or margarine tub) will often hide the contents from the curious. Make sure to remove or blackout labels with personal information before disposing of medication containers.

If you have any questions regarding medication disposal feel free to contact the City of Grapevine's Environmental Services Division of Public Works at 817-410-3330.

ICE (In Case of Emergency)

Start the New Year off Right by Setting Life Saving Info in your Cell Phone

After years of frustration of trying to get contact information from injured and traumatized individuals, an ambulance paramedic in Cambridge, England came up with the idea of storing emergency contact information in cell phones.

With so many cell phones in use, emergency personnel simply need to look in your contact list for "ICE", which will list the name of someone who knows enough about you to provide emergency information.

Set this lifesaving information in your phone now:

- Create a new contact in your cellular phone.
- Name that contact "ICE".
- Enter the contact's name and phone number.
- Program the number for your emergency contact.

Recruiting Census Workers

By 2010, there will be an estimated 310 million people residing in the United States. Counting each person is one of the largest operations the federal government undertakes. For example, the Census Bureau will recruit nearly 3.8 million applicants for 2010 Census field operations. Of these applicants, the Census Bureau will hire about 1.4 million temporary employees. Some of these employees will be using GPS-equipped hand-held computers to update maps and ensure there is an accurate address list for the mailing of the census questionnaires.

10 Questions 10 Minutes to Complete

With one of the shortest questionnaires in history, the 2010 Census asks for name, gender, age, race, ethnicity, relationship, and whether you own or rent your home. It takes only about 10 minutes for the average household to complete. Questions about how we live as a nation—our diversity, education, housing, jobs and more—are now covered in the American Community Survey, which is conducted every year throughout the decade and replaces the Census 2000 long-form questionnaire.

Responses to the 2010 Census questionnaire are required by law. All responses are used for statistical purposes only, and all are strictly confidential.

For more information, visit the 2010 Census Web site at <http://www.census.gov/2010>.
